Some people spend an entire lifetime
wondering if they made a difference.
The Marines don't have that problem

Ronald Reagan

Leadership is more than leading

- The power or ability to lead other people
- The sum of those qualities of intellect, human understanding, and moral character that enables a person to inspire and control a group of people successfully

DEPENDABILITY

A photograph of a group of soldiers in camouflage uniforms and helmets, crouching in a field and holding M16 rifles. One soldier in the foreground is smiling.

INITIATIVE

A photograph capturing a moment of civil unrest. In the foreground, several protesters are seen from behind, their backs to the viewer. One man in a light-colored t-shirt is reaching out towards a line of riot police. The police are equipped with dark uniforms, helmets, and clear plastic shields. The scene is set against a backdrop of a deep red sky, possibly from smoke or sunset. A yellow caution tape runs horizontally across the middle of the frame, partially obscuring the view.

DECISIVENESS

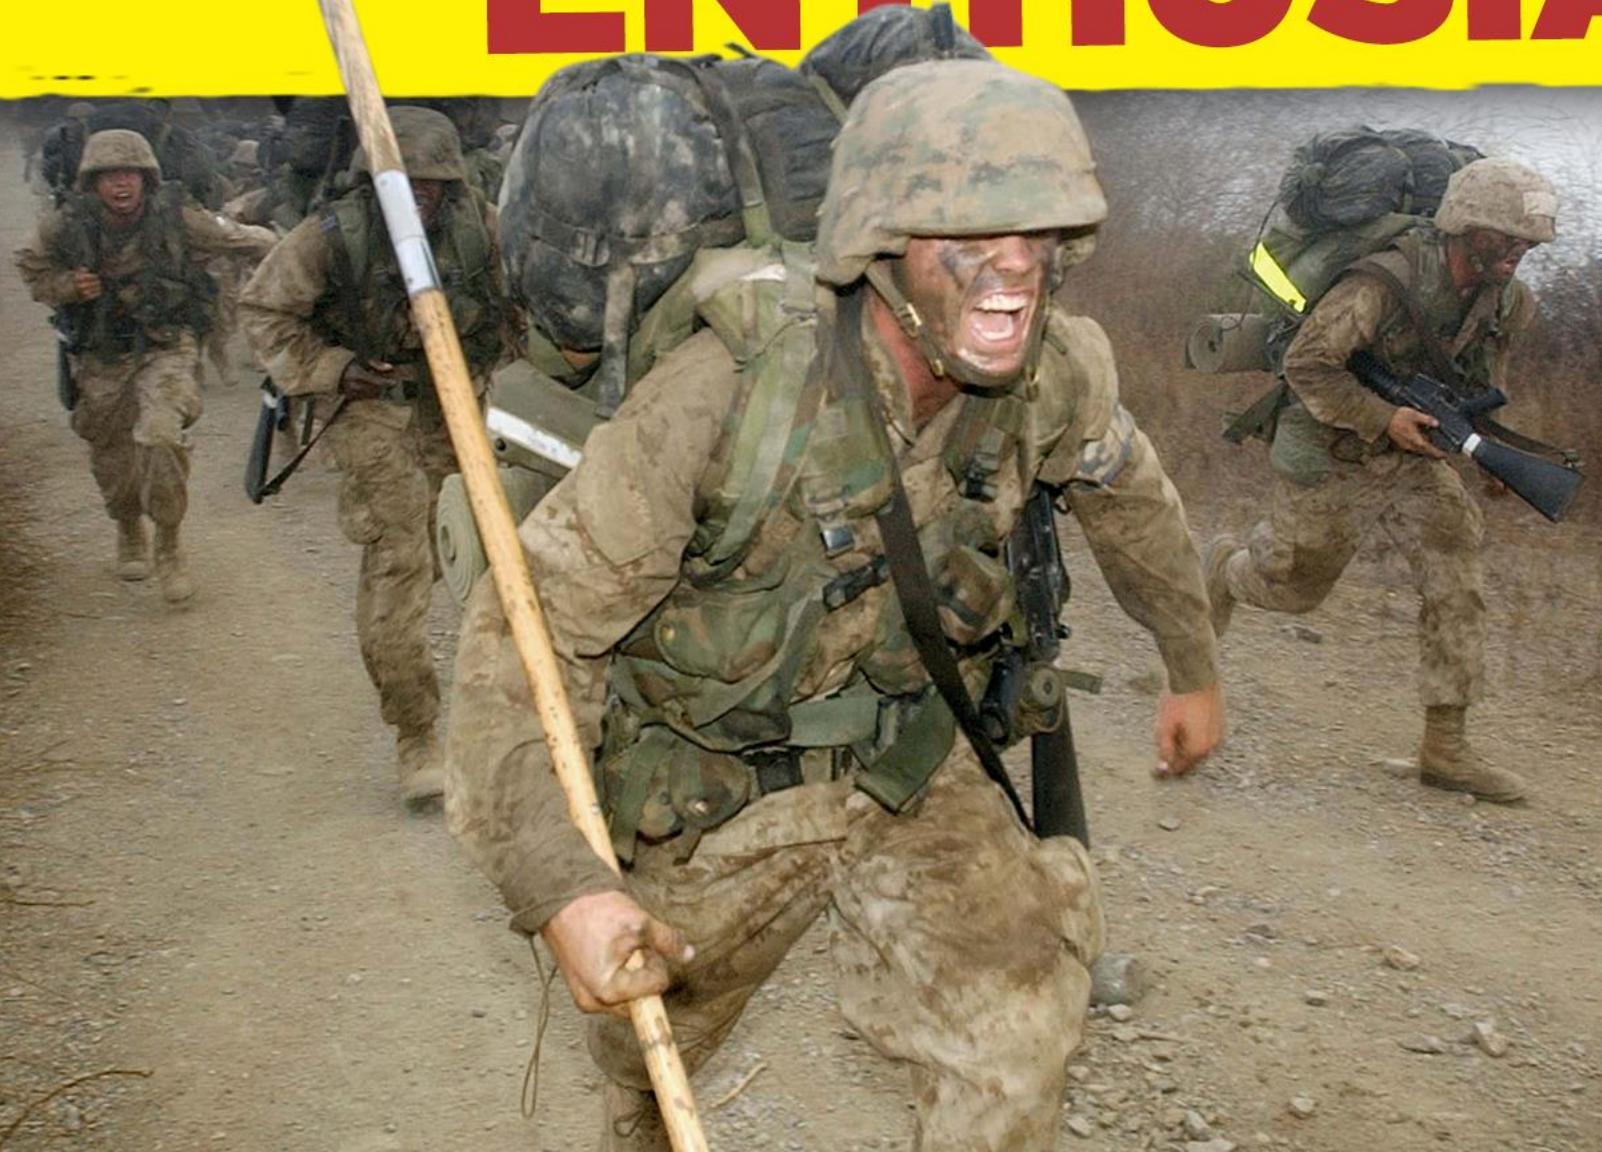

TACT

A photograph showing the back of a Marine's head and shoulders. He is wearing a white beret with a dark band and gold insignia, and a dark blue dress uniform jacket with a red collar. He is saluting the United States flag, which is visible in the upper left corner against a clear blue sky.

INTEGRITY

ENTHUSIASM

A group of U.S. Marine Corps recruits in formation, looking forward with discipline.

BEARING

A photograph showing a group of approximately ten children of various ages, mostly boys, gathered in front of a white wall topped with concertina wire. Two soldiers in camouflage uniforms and gear are interacting with the children. One soldier is handing a small toy car to a boy in a striped shirt. Another child is reaching up towards the soldier's hand. The scene is set outdoors in a dry, sandy environment.
